

Anti-Philosophy – With Non-Philosophy – Will and Representation

A pure line of inquiry.

By Shomit Sirohi

I. Will

The will is something personal, even private, even existentialist, it is then a music in the process of being a willingness, or a will to represent.

It can then be a collective will, a will even of the people.

II. Representation

Will then represents, the process, makes a point at each point and is progressive, perhaps regressive, but only on the point or moment –

even a moment of falling in love, or again.

III. Reading One Work, just that with an added point, a will, to represent it

I. Pure Being in Hegel
II. Its Following Moments.

Or

- I. Leibniz'
Monadology
- II. Mathematical
drawings on it.

Any such thing, that you hear which is not a will of either options, is not true.

Believe in truth, love.

Part II – Logic

The logic can be non-philosophy as well – just a group of practices – just reading, and philosophizing – that in fact Monadology means – in one drawing – the line and many lines with circles everywhere on its end-point – this then means pure things.

I read in a practice, of holding a watch – that this resembles infinity –

I make a practical point
– if I followed a watch, and saw purity in the following consequent – that it is about daily life with the function of wage life and then even teaching life, and finally student life and then in fact another spoke goes to a bank and finally economics is a firm structure because in fact I am born into society and Marx means that.

I just learnt a pure representation – life is indiscernible and pure like infinity.
